Our unique subtropical lifestyle, our magical Bay and River and our legendary hospitality are a source of life-long memories.

I hope you all have a great time at the championships.

Please take time to explore Australia's lifestyle capital and enjoy the very best of what we have to offer.

OFFICE OF THE LORD MAYOR
BRISBANE

Yours sincerely

Jim Soorley
LORD MAYOR

President National Band Council of Australia

I take this opportunity to extend a warm welcome to all the competitors and their supporters who are in Brisbane for the 1995 Australian National Band Championships. In doing so, I also recognise the amount of time and effort that the Organising Committee have made which will ensure the success of the weekend. I offer to them the thanks of the National Band Council for their efforts and a job well done.

Our National Championships would be a non-event were it not for the many bands that make such long journeys to take part. To them, a special thank you and I trust that they will have a very happy and worthwhile Championships.

Over this holiday weekend some 2500 or so bandspersons will be taking part in a very wide variety of performances. It would be nice if every one of them and their bands could return with a win in their particular event. Unfortunately this cannot be; however each one of them will have had the "win" of taking part. Taking part is winning!

On behalf of the National Band Council, I extend to everyone a successful contest and a safe return home after the playing is done.

Bill Belcher OAM
President, National Band Council

President Queensland Band Association Inc

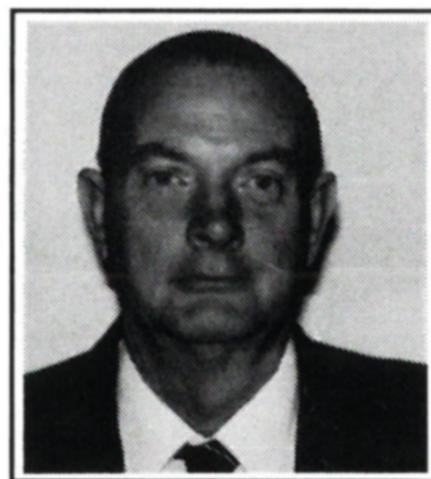

As President of the Queensland Band Association Inc and Chairman of the Organising Committee for the 1995 Australian National Band Championships it gives me a great deal of pleasure to welcome all competing bands, soloists and their supporters to Brisbane this Easter.

Excellent venues have been selected in the heart of the City to accommodate the 70 bands and 450 solo and party competitors. The Parade of Bands will provide a great spectacle for the public, passing through prominent City streets.

The Organising Committee have worked together tirelessly for a long period of time to ensure all aspects of the contest are attended to in a first class manner. The secretary, Jeanette Quigley, has led by example in all her undertakings to achieve a well organised contest.

Once again, a warm welcome to Brisbane. May your stay be enjoyable and successful.

ADJUDICATORS

Wing Commander Eric Banks, OBE

Eric Banks was born into a musical background in South Shields in the North of England, an area famous for its bands and personalities and so his natural love of band music was well founded in his early formative years. At the age of 17 he became a member of the Central Band of Her Majesty's Royal Air Force, during which time his repertoire of concert music was firmly established with this world famous band for the next 8 years.

He then became a bandmaster in the Royal Air Force and later was commissioned Director of Music of the Central Band. In recognition of his services to music he was awarded the MBE in 1974. In 1983, he was appointed Principal Director of Music, Royal Air Force and principal conductor of the Central Band of Her Majesty's Royal Air Force. In 1985 he was elected a Liveryman of the Worshipful Company of Musicians, London and later that same year was elected a Freeman of the City of London. In 1989 he was further honoured by the award of the OBE.

His long and distinguished career as a conductor of concerts, broadcasts, recordings, films and television has also taken him to most parts of the world as a guest conductor, adjudicator and examiner. Throughout his professional life, he has maintained his work with the brass band world by his writing, conducting, adjudicating and recordings. Eric is principal conductor of the London Symphonic Wind Orchestra and a guest conductor of the Tokyo Kosei Wind Orchestra.

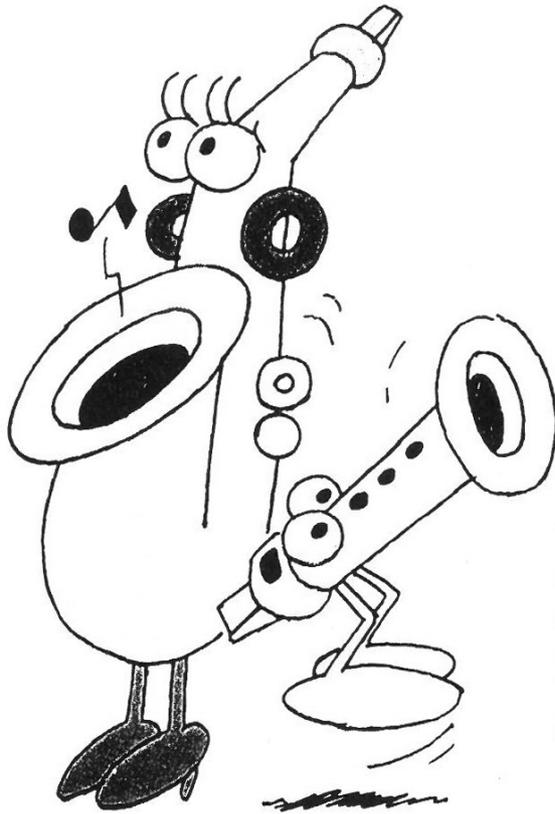

Vincent Fryer

Vin Fryer began studying euphonium at the age of 9 and later studied trombone and tuba. Vin went on to become a State and National Champion soloist many times over, playing with East Kew Central School Band, Kew Citizens Band and Hawthorn City Band in Victoria. Vin moved to Queensland in 1973 where he was tuba player with the Queensland Symphony Orchestra for several years. During this time he also conducted brass, military and concert bands and orchestras and taught tuba at the Queensland Conservatorium of Music.

In 1993 Vin retired from the Queensland Education Department after 14 years as an educator and conductor of the highly successful Brisbane State High School Orchestra, Symphonic and Concert Bands.

Vin has adjudicated at many State and District band championships and solo events. He is a member of the Institute of Music Teachers, Vice President of Australian Band and Orchestra Directors Association (Qld) and currently performing a part time consultancy in primary and secondary schools.

Percy Code — Impressario

A brief look at one of Australia's great musicians

by Norm Harris

Percy Code achieved far more in his life time than many of us who live in the modern era do. As well as being an acclaimed cornet champion, he was also a great orchestral trumpet player, a composer, conductor and a respected human being. Many people today do not appreciate his contribution to music in this country. It goes beyond banding, where among the older members he enjoys 'legend' status, and in his day, his name was a household word. Many of us have grown up having played many of his solos or marches, and to a lot of younger musicians not a great deal is known about Percy. Let's take a closer look at the life of this man.

Born July 3rd, 1888, in South Melbourne, Edward Percival Code was the son of Edward Thomas and Mary Ann Code, both of Bendigo. At an early age he was taught by his father to play piano, violin and the cornet. By age 14 he was already being acclaimed as a great soloist, and before he was 22, would be both Eb and Bb cornet champion, enjoying the reputation of being the most brilliant cornet player Australia has produced. In 1910, the English adjudicator, Mr William Short, said that there was no superior to Code in the entire British Isles. As a consequence of Short's recommendation, Percy was invited to tour Australia with the famous English brass band, 'Besses o' the Barn'. In 1911 he travelled to England to again play with Besses and also to study.

Percy studied orchestration and composition at the Royal College of Music in London, gaining both the Associate and Licentiate Diploma, and was awarded the gold medal for the candidate achieving the highest marks in the British Empire.

After returning to Australia, Percy went on to conduct champion bands and choirs and in doing so established an enviable reputation with the baton.

1921 saw Percy travelling to the United States where he performed under contract with the San Francisco Orchestra. Australia at this time did not have a professional orchestra as such, and any training he gained in this medium would have been with amateur orchestras, and is also a confirmation of Percy's skill as a performer that he was able to secure a position in one of America's major orchestras.

After his time in America he returned to Melbourne and worked in the orchestra at radio 3AR and theatre orchestras. Radio broadcasting did not start until 1923 and employed small (10-15 piece) orchestras.

When the Australian Broadcasting Company was formed in 1929, this new organisation decided to have a full time orchestras to play a variety of music for the culturally deprived. In Sydney and Melbourne these musical aggregations numbered eight to ten players. The ABC at this time was not a government body, but a free enterprise agreement between Sir Benjamin Fuller of Fuller's Theatres, cinema owner Stuart Doyle of Greater Union Theatres, and Frank Albert of J. Albert and Son, music publishers. It was not until 1932 that the government took control of the ABC and changed the name to Australian Broadcasting Commission.

In 1929, Percy Code was appointed principal conductor of the ABC and of the Melbourne ensemble, and in 1936 was transferred to Sydney to train the ever growing orchestra in that city. As principal conductor with the ABC Percy conducted many first performances of major orchestral works and was instrumental in training several of the other orchestras as they became established, as well as conducting operas and working with visiting overseas artists.

As senior conductor he worked almost every day conducting a variety of music for live concerts, recording or live broadcasts. Percy proved himself to be an impressive conductor as well as being a thorough orchestra trainer. Orchestra players respected and admired Percy's musicianship, and his rehearsals were always very carefully planned with never a wasted moment. In 1947 Percy was transferred back to Melbourne where he spent his last active years until poor health forced his retirement in 1951. He died on the 16th of October, 1953 and is buried in the Box Hill Cemetary.

Percy conducted over 2,000 concerts during his years with the ABC. He is one of the few bandsmen to become an orchestral conductor, but is better known for his 11 solos for brass instruments, and the several marches for brass band that he wrote. He also wrote a tutor for brass entitled Allans Modern Method for Cornet or Trumpet.

His contribution to the musical life of Australia is very considerable, and we all owe this great man a debt of gratitude for his selfless dedication to music.

To this day the many solos of Percy Code are played at eisteddfod's around Australia, and quite often you'll hear one of his marches at a contest. In bandrooms his name is still spoken with reverence. All this seems a fitting tribute to this great Australian musician don't you think?

Norm Harris is a freelance trumpet player who now resides in Melbourne. He studied and worked in the United States, was lead trumpet with the Daly-Wilson Big Band, the GTV 9 Orchestra and at the Flamingo Hilton in Las Vegas. He has taught at Sydney Conservatorium, the Defence Force School of Music and is currently on staff at Melbourne University. He is currently recording the solos of Percy Code, due for release late 1994. Many of Norm's students enjoy professional careers.

An Australian Tuba Player studying overseas

Des Ward

This is a short account of my experiences as I pursued further study overseas. It may help to bear in mind that it was written from the perspective of a 23 year old who looks back on 11 years of playing.

I started playing the tuba in the primary school system in Brisbane at the age of eleven. My school, Mt Gravatt South State Primary School had a very strong music program and that combined with the help I received from my Mother (a piano teacher) gave me a strong grounding and a love for music.

When I went to high school (age 13) the music programme at my school was not so strong, however I was fortunate to play in the brass bands around Brisbane and had a fine teacher Mr Brian Morrison, to point me in the right direction. Following Brian's advice I became involved in the Queensland Conservatorium's Music School program which was fantastic and continued my studies with Mr Craig Cunningham (Principal Tubist, Qld. Symphony Orchestra). After school I attended the Qld. Conservatorium enrolling in the diploma course still working under Craig. At the end of my second year I met Mr Steve Rosse' (Principal Tubist, Sydney Symphony Orchestra) whilst on an Australian Youth Orchestra tour. Realizing that I wanted to emulate the American style of playing more I enrolled in the Canberra School of Music and completed my diploma there under Steve.

After completing my diploma I became determined to study further overseas and with Steve's help contacted Mr Bob Tucci (Principal Tubist, Bavarian State Opera) and Mr Tom Walsh (Principal Tubist, Munich Philharmonic) in Munich. I chose Germany for my destination thinking along the lines of obtaining work. I lived and studied there for one and a half years after which I met Mr Roger Bobo in a masterclass and upon his suggestion and that of my former teachers I moved to Rotterdam, Holland which is where I currently am.

Having what I could consider the best training on my instrument possible in Australia I found that the level in Germany was, to a large degree higher. Maybe a reason for this is the cultural base in this country, every town has an orchestra and often an opera company as well! Certainly people are more exposed to "Classical" music or for that matter Jazz, Concert band music or any other form of music.

However for me the main difference was a sense of professionalism that pervaded everyones' playing. At first this was a little difficult to grasp for me as moving into the professional orchestras in Australia I had found that the tolerance level or could one say the professional standards if not lower were different. For example, a rehearsal in Germany was business, paid business, when the conductor spoke, his word was law and I never saw anyone talk to a neighbour louder than a whisper and in short comments if they talked at all. For a tuba player in an orchestral situation you came in, played your part correctly, in time and in tune, then went home on the first train after the job, it was a formal situation and one had to dress and act formally or one didn't get employed again!

As far as work went in many respects it simply took time. I had to build up contacts slowly and found that being able to speak the language was a distinct advantage and being Australian seemed to be better than being from certain other countries (an unfortunate fact). Even so it took me ten months before the first paid job came along. The mainstay of jobs for freelance brass players in the Munich area seemed to be the church festivals and various quintet jobs. I was fortunate enough to obtain freelance work with the Munich Philharmonic and the Bavarian State Opera but my bread and butter as it were came from quintet jobs.

As far as obtaining full time work in Germany for my instrument it became apparent that the positions being auditioned were filled only with German nationals. Foreigners were mainly uninvited to the auditions. I came to realize, that bluntly put, you must not only have a very high standard in your playing but also know people within the orchestra you wanted to audition for. In fact, sad as it is to say, I believe that this is the case in most of the world today.

When I decided to move to Holland I chose not to look for work as much and concentrated mainly on improving the standard of my playing. I did however through other musicians find that work was at best scarce, there were teaching possibilities but most foreign students at the Rotterdam Conservatorium were mainly involved in their studies and intended to return to their home countries.

My advice to high school students intending further study in music is this – know the odds. Be completely aware of advantages and disadvantages of the music profession if you wish to perform. After the decision has been made to aim at a performing career give it your best shot, go for it 110 percent because in the next town or the next city or the next country there is someone who is working at 120 percent, of that you can be sure. The only other piece of advice comes from a good friend and former teacher of mine, Craig Cunningham – make sure you have fun along the way, the rainbow is just as much fun as the pot of gold at the end!!

Joe Lovano

playing.

Blistex[®]

working.

Before Joe picks up his sax,
he picks up Blistex Ointment.

Its unique formula
penetrates, so it won't cause
Joe's lips to slip or his reeds to gum up. And because it's Blistex, Joe's lips stay comfortable and conditioned even when the last set is over.

Sound advice:
From care to cure, there's a
Blistex product for you.
