Prevent adult-onset diabetes with
HEALTHY FOOD & EXERCISE

The Victorian Health Promotion Foundation (VicHealth), through its Arts Sponsorship Program, is delighted to be a sponsor of the Australian National Band Championships in association with the International Diabetes Institute. The Institute welcomes the opportunity to promote its health message and encourages a healthy lifestyle to prevent developing adult-onset diabetes.

PREVENT ADULT-ONSET DIABETES WITH HEALTHY FOOD & EXERCISE

WHAT CAN YOU DO TO ACHIEVE AND MAINTAIN GOOD HEALTH?

Healthy Eating:

Eat plenty of fresh fruit, vegetables, wholegrain breads and cereals. Eat moderate amounts of lean meat, skinless chicken, fish and low fat dairy products.

Regular Exercise:

Try to get 30 minutes exercise at least 3 times a week. Remember, "Walking" is excellent exercise and a simple and effective way of staying healthy.

Control your Weight and try to be SMOKE-FREE.

500,000 Australians have diabetes, half of whom are not aware of it.

What is Diabetes?

Diabetes is a condition where there is too much glucose (sugar) in the blood. The body is unable to keep the blood glucose level within normal limits ie 3.5 - 8.0mmol/L. If the blood glucose level stays high for too long a person's health may deteriorate, sometimes quite seriously.

There are two major types of diabetes:

NIDDM (Non Insulin Dependent Diabetes Mellitus)

85% have Type 2 or NIDDM or Adult-onset. It usually occurs in adults over 40 years of age, especially in people who are overweight. The risk of developing adult-onset diabetes is higher if you have family members with diabetes BUT just because you don't have diabetes in your family does not mean that you are not at risk.

IDDM (Insulin Dependent Diabetes Mellitus)

Only 15% have Type 1 or IDDM. This type of diabetes usually occurs in people younger than 30 years but can happen at any age.

THE "WESTERN" LIFESTYLE IS CHARACTERISED BY A HIGH FAT, LOW FIBRE DIET, REDUCED EXERCISE AND INCREASED OBESITY, ALL FACTORS ASSOCIATED WITH THE DEVELOPMENT OF ADULT-ONSET DIABETES.

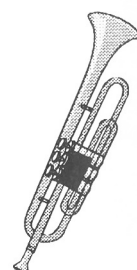

PEOPLE WHO EXERCISE REGULARLY AND EAT HEALTHY FOOD ARE MUCH LESS LIKELY TO DEVELOP ADULT-ONSET DIABETES

A Message From the Premier Of Victoria

Jeff Kennett

Firstly, I have great pleasure in welcoming all participants to Melbourne for the 1994 Australian National Band Championships.

A record 88 bands are in Melbourne for this prestigious event, while 540 solo entrants are taking part. Every state in Australia is represented while two New Zealand bands have made the journey across the Tasman. This is a most impressive line-up of numbers and talent. As many of you are well aware, this is an exciting time for Melbourne and Victoria.

It is quite fitting that the 1994 Australian National Band Championships are being held in this great city because of our focus in Victoria on the arts, sport and tourism.

I hope you will have the chance to take in some of the sights while you are here. A drive through the beautiful Dandenongs, just east of the city, or a tram ride to the famous beachside suburb of St. Kilda are just two of the excellent attractions on offer.

May I once again welcome you all here and wish you well for the championships. I hope your visit will provide fond and long-lasting memories.

Jeff Kennett

VICTORIAN HEALTH PROMOTION FOUNDATION MESSAGE

I am very pleased that the Victorian Health Promotion Foundation is once again a major sponsor of the Victorian Bands' League Australian National Band Championships in association with the International Diabetes Institute.

VicHealth supports arts and culture activities in Victoria, using events such as the Championships to promote awareness of lifestyle factors that can contribute to the health and well-being of all Victorians.

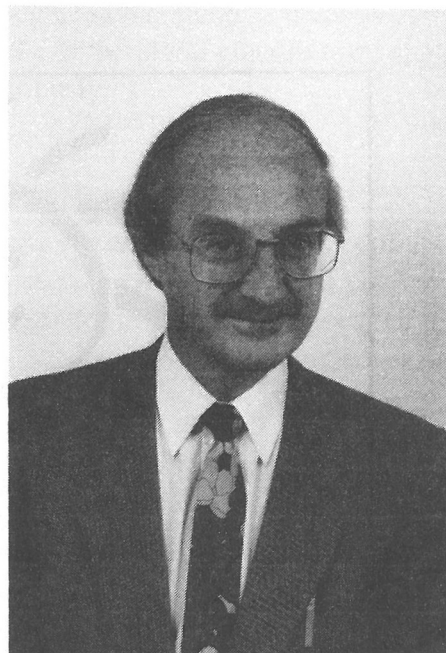

"Be Diabetes Wise - Healthy Food and Exercise" is the message being promoted during the 1994 Australian National Band Championships. This campaign encourages the enjoyment of healthy eating and regular exercise as an easy means of being fitter and healthier, and preventing adult-onset diabetes.

The National Band Championships annually showcase the finest in bands performances, featuring Concert and Brass Bands from throughout Australia and New Zealand. I invite you to join me in experiencing these rousing renditions while marching to the beat that will keep Victoria a healthier State for the Arts.

NATIONAL BAND COUNCIL PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

In affording a welcome to all band persons gathering for the 1994 NATIONAL BAND CHAMPIONSHIPS, I offer the thanks of the National Band Council to the organising committee who once again have worked long and hard to ensure the success of this weekend of music making.

A special welcome to our friends from across the Tasman who we are always very pleased to have with us in the true tradition of international banding.

I am especially looking forward to the Street March event when the Saturday morning shoppers in the City centre will be seeing and hearing the finest bands in Australia. This is undoubtedly the best opportunity that we have to present the participating bands to the public, and I'm sure that the parade will be very well received.

Over the weekend some 88 bands and over 500 soloists will vie for the top honours. As usual only a handful will return home with the coveted trophies. What then of the others? have they failed? Not So! They will have taken part in the top competition among the top bands that this country has to offer. They will have been reunited with many friends in the banding world and will make many new friends over the course of the contest.

The lesson is, that Band Contests are all about meeting old friends and making new ones. WINNING IS AN EXCITING BONUS.

On behalf of the National Council, I extend to all competitors a happy and successful contest and a safe return home when the celebrations are over.

Absent: Graeme Patching, Andrea Edwards

MESSAGE FROM THE VBL PRESIDENT

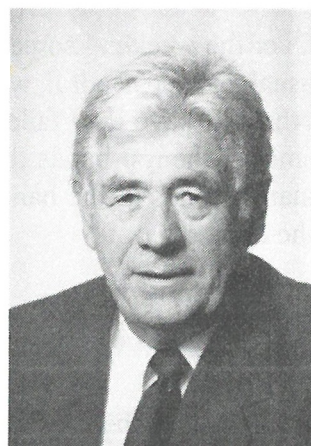

As President of the Victorian Bands' League and Chairman of the Organising Committee for the 1994 Australian National Band Championships, it gives me a great deal of pleasure to extend a very warm welcome to all bands and their supporters to the City of Melbourne.

It is exciting that the contest will be held in the heart of our city, at the Melbourne and North Melbourne Town Halls, the street march in the Swanston Street Walk, marching events at Olympic Park with its Astro Turf surface and the solo events at the Victorian College of the Arts.

I would like to thank all our sponsors, the main ones being Vic Health Foundation through International Diabetes Institute, Allans, Arts Victoria and many other sponsors, who through their financial support have made this contest possible. The Organising Committee have worked very hard for well over two years and are determined to make this a memorable and friendly contest and one which we trust all band members and supporters will remember for a long time.

Bert Bowden, our very well known and respected Administrator is retiring after this contest, after a lifetime of service to banding in Australia and we trust that this contest will be a great success so as to give him a terrific send off, which will in some way reward him for all his years of hard work.

Once again, welcome to the 1994 National Band Championships and I trust that you will have a most enjoyable and successful weekend.

IAN MATHERS, B.E.M.

Australian Educational Music Supplies

From now until the end of April another exciting competition is happening. If your band is considering purchasing new instruments, and you fancy your chances of coming up trumps at the National Championships, then this is the competition for you.

Here is how it works:

We discount the prices of Brass Band and Concert Band instruments further than ever before, (some over 50%).

Then we reward you for taking part in the National Championships in Melbourne this year by giving extra discounts ontop of the already ultra cheap specials. If your band has entered in the Nationals they will automatically save an extra 2% on the prices shown. If your band receives a third placing they receive a 3% extra discount. For a second placing the band gets a 4% extra discount, and if your band wins at the Nationals you save a whopping 5% extra!

Work out your rate on the table below.

ALEX LITHGOW

by Pat Ward

Born in Scotland on 1st December 1870, raised in Invercargill, New Zealand and spending most of his adult life in Launceston, Tasmania, from the confines of this small environment, Lithgow managed to make an international name for himself in the early decades of this century. He was called "Australian March King" and "Sousa of the Antipodes." Lithgow music was featured at outdoor entertainments, on concert platforms, it was recorded on Phonograph cylinder, on early Gramophone discs and pianola rolls and was heard on wireless programmes.

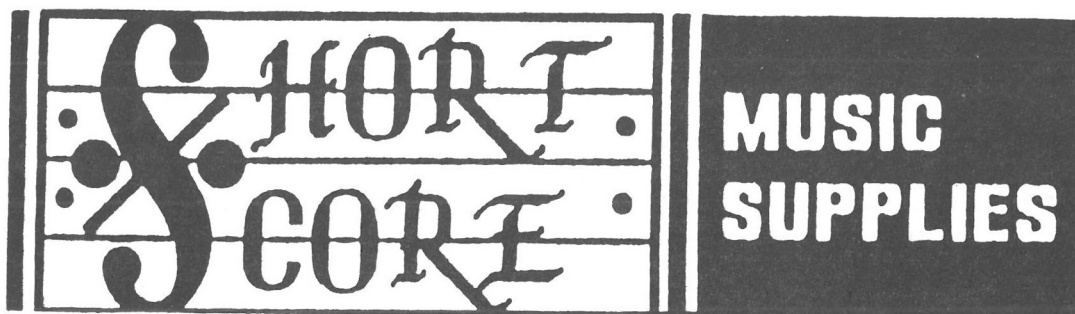

The exact number of Lithgow marches is unknown as some were pirated and others lost during the First World War when in Germany for printing, and although Alex wrote songs, waltzes and suites, it is his marches which have stood the test of time. "Invercargill" is still considered one of the finest quick marches ever written. Many Lithgow tunes commemorate Australia and New Zealand and have accompanied troops to two world wars and to victory celebrations.

Lithgow was a cornet champion and more importantly, a gentleman who believed his wonderful talent should be shared by all. He advised young bandsmen and musicians to think about the piece of music for ten minutes and play it for five! He also published much of his own work under the names of Commonwealth Band Music.

Young Alex was five years old when he and his family stepped ashore on NZ soil. Father started to teach him the cornet when he was about nine years old. In 1881 aged 10 Alex joined the then famous Invercargill Garrison Band. Other than family, the only formal musical instruction received was on the violin. Alex dabbled in composition from an early age and tried out new tunes as a member of a little dance band. "Wairoa" written when Alex was about seventeen is recognised as his first published composition.

For thirteen years Alex Lithgow served the Garrison Band, twice winning the title Cornet Champion of NZ and eventually becoming the band's leader. He was a compositor before becoming a professional musician. He was business manager of the family entertainment group and was always performing with other musical combinations or solely. He played violin in the local Theatre Royal orchestra.

In July 1894 Alex Lithgow took up the position of bandmaster with St. Joseph's Band in Launceston. New Year's Day 1895 Lithgow and his band were victorious at the Castlemaine, Victoria contest and on 18th July of the same year repeated the result in a competition to settle the question of who was the premier band of Tasmania. During his early days in Tasmania the gifted composer also conducted the Campbell Town Band and returned to his trade when St Joseph's experienced financial problems. With Lithgow at the helm the band entered numerous contests with varied results, never able to repeat the triumph of 1895 although Lithgow compositions did win prizes and were chosen as test pieces for contests.

THE VICTORIAN COLLEGE OF THE ARTS
234 St. Kilda Road, Melbourne Victoria
The University of Melbourne

Since its conception in 1867 as the National Gallery Arts School, the Victorian College of the Arts, has established itself as one of Australia's finest institutions which combines five Schools, dedicated to the fine and performing arts: Dance, Drama, Film and Television and Music, plus a government funded secondary school, known as the Victorian College of the Arts School. It is a College of Advanced Education, and has been an affiliated college of the University of Melbourne since 1991.

School of Music

The School of Music was established in 1974. Today it provides some of the finest facilities in Australia for the training of performing musicians, and attracts academic staff and students from around Australia as well as from overseas. The School of Music takes pride in the fine standards achieved by the various classical and jazz ensembles. Ensembles include a Symphony Orchestra, Chamber Orchestra, Symphonic Wind Band, Big Band, Brass Ensemble and a variety of Jazz, Latin American and Improvisation Groups.

Visiting Artists

Annually, the School engages a remarkable number of visiting artists to complement the work and teaching of our academic staff. These highly respected musicians and teachers are invited to give master classes, individual lessons, lectures, coach chamber music and ensembles, conduct the orchestra and generally participate in the School's performance life and annual concert series.

During 1993, the extensive list of visiting guest artists included a cross-section of some of the world's most acclaimed classical and jazz musicians, including Jeremy Polmear, Diane Ambache, The Borodin Quartet, Jonathon Hinden, Skip Gray, Andrew Joy, Peter Jenkin, Carl Vine, Mike Nock, Michael Collins, Damien Top, Barry Tuckwell, Peter Tahourdin, The Brodsky Quartet, Richard Pusz, Peter Donohoe, Robert Wynn, Piers Land, Howard Shelley, Barbara Gilby and Roderick Brydon.

Performance Programme

All students are given regular opportunities to perform both within the College and externally. Over 60 public performances are mounted every year, including concerts by students, academic staff and visiting guest artists, as well as a number of opera seasons. The performance activities play an integral role in maintaining the School's energetic and vital performance commitment.

AUSTRALIA'S FIRST NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP WAS IT AT BATHURST OR BALLARAT?

by Jack Greaves,
Historical Research Officer, Band Association of NSW

Numerous band contests were held at various locations around Australia during the latter half of the last century. Most were generally local affairs but in the closing years of the 1890's a number of "Intercolonial Contests" were promoted by several different bodies.

In 1896 and again in 1897 the then newly formed Band Association of New South Wales staged their Intercolonial Contests in Sydney. These were followed in Melbourne by the Druids Society with similar events in the years 1897 - 98 and 99. Another was held in Launceston in 1898. Each of these contests attracted a number of top bands from various areas in Australia and the 1897 and 1898 Melbourne events each included an entrant from New Zealand.

A visitor to the Launceston contest of 1898 was Mr. Abe Gartrell, bandmaster of Bathurst City Band. Gartrell was so impressed with what he heard and saw whilst in Launceston that on his return home he became determined to stage a similar event in Bathurst. In due course an advertisement appeared in the "Bathurst Times" announcing the "Federal Intercolonial Band Contest" would be held in November, 1899. Separate divisions for first and second class bands (as they were referred to in those days) were to be provided and there was also nine sections for solo instrumentalists.

Entries for the second division numbered three only with nine bands in the first division. Amongst the latter was the Wellington Garrison Band of New Zealand, Code's Melbourne and Sydney's Newtown Band, the remaining bands were all from country areas of New South Wales, including one from the small isolated mining township of Hillgrove situated in the far north.

When the results of the competition were announced in the Bathurst press it was clearly stated that the senior band events and the solos were for "The Championship of Australasia." That contest, therefore, appears to have been the first "National" event held in Australia. And the Hillgrove Band, conducted by Hughie McMahon, became the first band to secure national honour, having beaten the famed Code's band of Melbourne by eight points, who were runners-up. But it is not clear just how, when and why the status of the contest changed from being an "Intercolonial" event to an "Australasian Championship" and one is left wondering how the promoters justified the elevation.

In the Bb cornet solo event, Hillgrove's conductor, Hugh McMahon gained first prize with a perfect score of 60/60 points. There were nineteen entrants.

Many people within the band movement associate early Australian National Championships with the contests promoted by the South Street Society at Ballarat. But although the Society promoted its first contest for bands in 1900 it was not until the 1903 event that the competition officially assumed the importance of an Australian Championship.

Apart from the above, the 1903 event was significant for several other reasons. Firstly, it attracted a then record entry - seventeen bands in all, representing five states - and they all competed against each other as grading at Ballarat was not introduced until 1905. Secondly, the contest was won by the Newcastle City Band the only entrant from New South Wales. This band was undoubtedly one of the finest combinations in Australia at the time and under their conductor, William Barkel, had competed at Ballarat on the two previous occasions, winning both times.

Newcastle City, therefore, became not only the first band to gain the title of "National Champion" at Ballarat but was also the first band to gain the distinction of securing a hat-trick of wins at the famous banding centre.

In the blue ribbon solo section, the Bb cornet championship was won by Hugh McMahon again with a perfect score of 100/100 points. (What a magnificent player that man must have been.) And from all accounts thoroughly deserving of the title, "Emperor of the Cornet."

Although contesting at Ballarat does not generate the same "magic" today as it did in the early years of this century, it still remains in the hearts of many bandsmen "The Mecca of Australian Banding."

James Morrison has put more than just his name to this Yamaha Trumpet.
He also helped design it.

Introducing the Yamaha YTR 6335J professional trumpet. An instrument which has been developed with the Australian player in mind.

And who better to have his say in the design of this new instrument than jazz virtuoso, James Morrison.

The result is amazing. A superbly crafted instrument which is mellow when played soft or when playing 'lead' work, the instrument responds with a brilliant and bright tone.

YAMAHA

BAND & ORCHESTRAL INSTRUMENTS

Plus, there's a special Yamaha Mouthpiece with a wide rim for comfort and a rounded edge going into the cup.

Now you can exploit jazz effects such as 'shakes' and 'fall offs' with ease and less effort.

The Yamaha YTR 6335J Professional Trumpet.

"It's a joy to own and play and I'm very happy to put my name to it."

This highly regarded text written by one of Australia's leading trombonists will be available from Allens music display during the Easter National Band Championships. The author will also be present to discuss and demonstrate his work.

"It has obviously been well thought out and is certainly comprehensive in style and content" - Alan Jenkins former tubist, London Symphony Orchestra.

"His tone, breadth of sound, slide technique and flexibility were really something to see and hear." - Wayne Bowden, former Champion of Champions.
